These discussions frequently involved misinformation and referred to the perceived association between immigration and terrorism.

In the aftermath of the Manchester Arena bombing, a scoping review of studies has examined the dynamics of rumours surrounding the Manchester Arena attack. Given the rise in social media and the role it played in the dissemination of information, the study aimed to analyze the dynamics of these Rumours. Rumours about immigration have been shown to influence the public's perception of immigration and immigration policies. The study findings revealed that the circulation of misinformation about immigration has played a significant role in shaping public opinion. The study highlights the need for effective countermeasures to address the issue of misinformation in the context of immigration and terrorism.